'Without promotion,
something terrible happens
... nothing'

- P.T. Barnum

Why just think outside the box when you can set it ablaze?

It's a modern-day 'Catch-22' for most small and medium size business owners - they don't have a lot of money to devote to marketing, yet if they want to keep their business afloat, they can't afford not to get the word out to their customers, and more importantly, their potential customers.

It takes some serious 'outside-the-box' thinking to succeed in today's economy. At boxfire marketing™, we pride ourselves on having set the box ablaze - making the only limitations those of the imagination.

As a small to medium-size business owner, you will be amazed at all of the opportunities available - without blowing the budget.
